Series Statement

Series Information: The LEMAS survey is a mail survey that was first conducted in 1987. The survey collects data on personnel, expenditures, salaries, operations, equipment, special programs, and drug enforcement activities of law enforcement agencies.

The survey sponsor is the Bureau of Justice Statistics (BJS). The Demographic Statistical Methods Division at the Census Bureau was responsible for sample design, imputation and variance estimation cell formation for the survey in 1987, 1990, and 1993. The Governments Division (GOVS) is responsible for data collection and editing.

Study Scope

Abstract

This survey, the first in the Bureau of Justice Statistics' program on Law Enforcement Management and Administrative Statistics (LEMAS), presents information on three types of general purpose law enforcement agencies: state police, local police, and sheriffs' departments. Data from the primary state police agency in each of 49 states (Hawaii does not have a state police agency) are also presented. Variables include size of the populations served by the typical police or sheriffs' department, levels of employment and spending, various functions of the department, average salary levels for uniformed officers, and other matters relating to management and personnel.

Mode of Data Collection:

Characteristics of Data Collection	DATA COLLECTION DESCRIPTION

Situation:
During fiscal year 1987 there were about 15,000 State and local general purpose law enforcement agencies operating in the United States. These agencies included almost 12,000 local police agencies and about 3,000 sheriffs' agencies. This study, the first in the Bureau of Justice Statistics' new program on Law Enforcement Management and Administrative Statistics (LEMAS), presents information based on a nationally representative sample of these local law enforcement agencies. Data from the primary State police agency in each of 49 states are also presented. (Hawaii does not have a State police agency.)

Though there have been other efforts to collect information on law enforcement agencies in the United States, this is the first to provide detailed nationally representative data on a wide range of variables. These include the size of the populations served by the typical police or sheriffs' department, their levels of employment and spending, their various functions, average salary levels for uniformed officers, and other matters relating to management and personnel. The LEMAS survey will be repeated in 1990 and every 3 years thereafter.

The Law Enforcement Management and Administrative Statistics (LEMAS) survey focuses on three types of general purpose law enforcement agencies--state police, local police, and sheriffs' departments. Included in the sample but not in this report were a group of special agencies including Texas constables, park police, transit police, airport police, housing police, and police in independent school districts. The data were collected by the Bureau of the Census for the Bureau of Justice Statistics. The sampling frame was the Directory of Law Enforcement Agencies, 1986: United States (ICPSR 8696) a mail update of the law enforcement sector of a master list of all justice agencies in the United States. Each agency was asked to indicate what type of agency it was, its geographic jurisdiction, and its number of full-time and part-time employees for both sworn and nonsworn personnel.

CONCEPTS AND DEFINITIONS

All State law enforcement agencies and city and township law enforcement agencies with 135 or more sworn employees were included in the survey with certainty. County police as distinguished from sheriffs' departments are combined with municipal and township law enforcement agencies in the category of local police agencies. The remaining agencies were selected in a two-stage process. The first stage units were counties, the same as those selected for the 1983 Survey of Local Jails. For that survey, all counties in the United States were divided into five strata based on the average daily inmate population of the jails in the county. The first stratum included all counties containing jails with average daily populations of inmates or more; these counties were included with certainty. The other four strata, with decreasing average jail populations, were sampled at varying intervals. A sixth stratum was added for the LEMAS survey to represent those States with combined jail/prison systems, which were not included in the 1983 Survey of Local Jails. All counties in these States were included with certainty. All county-level law enforcement agencies in the counties selected for the sample were included in the survey.

The second stage units were municipal and township law enforcement agencies. A sample of these agencies was selected from within the six strata based on the number of sworn employees in the agency. During the course of data collection, the sampling frame was found to be deficient in Texas because a number of constable offices had not been included. A systematic sample of one-fourth of these offices was added to the survey. In all, 3,054 law enforcement agencies were included in the sample. The final weight assigned to each case was the inverse of its probability of selection.

In the case of sheriffs' agencies, an additional adjustment was required because the sample did not represent small counties which did not operate a jail in those states which had separate jail systems. This adjustment used counts from the Directory Survey file for sheriffs' agencies by various size classes of population served. Thus, the number of sheriffs' agencies in this report may not correspond exactly to the totals found in other publications. Also, the total number of agencies is the result of the weighted sample and not an exact count of all agencies nationwide.

Two questionnaires were developed for the survey. All agencies were asked to respond to a common set of questions on operations, equipment, personnel, salaries, and expenditures. Large agencies, those with 135 or more sworn employees, were asked additional questions, mainly relating to policies and programs. The survey was conducted by mail with two follow-up mailings and additional telephone calls to nonrespondents, as necessary. The reference date was June 30, 1987, for most questions and the pay period containing June 15, 1987, for questions about personnel. The overall response rate for the survey was 95.2%.

In addition to the weighting adjustments described earlier, adjustments for nonresponse were made by agency and on selected items to account for missing data from reporting agencies. Among agencies included in the survey with certainty, adjustments were made by computing the ratio of sworn employees in 1986 for the entire sample to sworn employees in the responding agencies. This was done separately for counties and municipalities, with county agencies divided into two groups: those with 500 or more employees and those with less than 500 employees. Adjustments for nonresponse among agencies in the sampled strata were made in similar fashion, separately for counties and municipalities; however, the ratio was calculated within each stratum by dividing the total number of agencies by the number of responding agencies.

Data on the number of employees and on the amount of agency expenditures in this report are not comparable with other BJS reports, such as the Expenditure and Employment series. In the latter, these data are presented by governmental function, whereas in the LEMAS survey expenditures and employment are classified by type of agency. For example, expenditures that are attributed to sheriffs' departments in this report would be apportioned among various functions, such as police protection and corrections, in the Expenditure and Employment series. It should also be noted that the LEMAS figures for operating expenditures include employee benefits, but the Expenditure and Employment figures do not.

Because some of the data were collected from a sample of agencies, the results are subject to sampling error. All statements of comparison in this report have been tested to ensure that observed differences between values are significant at two standard errors (with 95 percent confidence level) or higher. To determine that two estimates differ significantly from one another, a confidence interval is constructed about the difference between the estimates. If the interval does not contain zero, the difference is considered to be a true difference. In other words, the chances are 95 out of 100 that the estimated difference based on the sample would differ from the average difference for all possible samples by at least twice the standard error.

FROM THE DIRECTOR
BUREAU OF THE CENSUS

On behalf of the Bureau of Justice Statistics (BJS), Department of Justice, the Bureau of the Census is conducting a sample survey of law enforcement agencies in the United States. The survey will obtain current information on the workload and resources of the Nation's law enforcement agencies.

State, local, and Federal officials will use the data to assess the needs of these agencies and to keep informed of their status. The BJS will publish the data in a bulletin scheduled for release in 1988.

Your agency and other agencies on the scientifically selected sample will represent the characteristics and work of all law enforcement agencies in the United States. So that we can produce estimates with a high degree of accuracy and publish the survey results as soon as possible, please complete this questionnaire within 3 weeks.

If answers to questions are not readily available, please provide reasonable estimates and show them with an asterisk. If we can help in completing the questionnaire, please call Charlene Sebold, collect, on (301) 763-7826.

The Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968, as amended (42 U.S.C. 3732), authorizes this report. Although the survey is voluntary, we need your participation to make the results of this survey comprehensive, accurate, and timely.

Thank you for your cooperation. The Census Bureau appreciates your help.

Sincerely,

JOHN G. KEANE

BUREAU OF THE CENSUS

On behalf of the Bureau of Justice Statistics (BJS), Department of Justice, the Bureau of the Census is conducting a sample survey of law enforcement agencies in the United States. The survey will obtain current information on the workload and resources of the Nation's law enforcement agencies.

State, local, and Federal officials will use the data to assess the needs of these agencies and to keep informed of their status. The BJS will publish the data in a bulletin scheduled for release in 1988.

Your agency and other agencies on the scientifically selected sample will represent the characteristics and work of all law enforcement agencies in the United States. So that we can produce estimates with a high degree of accuracy and publish the survey results as soon as possible, please complete this questionnaire within 3 weeks.

If answers to questions are not readily available, please provide reasonable estimates and show them with an asterisk. If we can help in completing the questionnaire, please call Charlene Sebold, collect, on (301) 763-7826.

The Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968, as amended (42 U.S.C. 3732), authorizes this report. Although the survey is voluntary, we need your participation to make the results of this survey comprehensive, accurate, and timely.

Thank you for your cooperation. The Census Bureau appreciates your help.

Sincerely,

JOHN G. KEANE
